OUTGOING COMMENTS FROM COUNCILMAN ANTHONY DINANNO AND COUNCILMAN STEPHEN ALTOBELLI (cont'd):

observations: for those of you who attend or read about council meetings, you hear a lot about those who serve the borough, there is an extraordinary level of service provided to this community by the people who work for our borough, whether they get compensation or not. There is a terrific level of public involvement and it shows in how this town is run. He thanked everyone who does so much, for a small town like this. He said that running for office you learn a lot, about the people you are running with, against, about the colleagues you serve with, the people you work with, some good and bad, some disappointing, some reaffirming, but it's all educational which it has been for him about himself and others. He is glad he did it, and hopefully to the best of his ability and has no regrets leaving and wished the best to the incoming council next year and to all the residents of Hasbrouck Heights.
